A SEASONABLE ARTICLE.

JUST RECEIVED,
AND FOR SALE
By WILLIAM Y. BIRCH,
STATIONER,
No. 17 South Second Street,
HAMILTON's ELIXIR,

A SOVEREIGN REMEDY

For Colds, obstinate Coughs, Catarrhs, Asthmas, Sore-throats, and approaching Consumptions.

THOUSANDS are too well acquainted with the nature and effects of empirical medicines daily offered for the cure of the above complaints; dear bought experience has taught them that oily and heating medicines joined with strong opiates (or sleepy drugs) repeated doses of which, flatter and deceive the patient for the present, by procuring momentary ease; experience, I say, has taught thousands that the common opiates and balsams, as they are called, finally aggravate every disorder of the breast and lungs in their most distressing symptoms; that they load the stomach and impair the digestion, inflame the whole system, increase the difficulty of breathing, and excite fever.—But the qualities of this valuable discovery are evinced by perfectly opposite effects. A SINGLE TRIAL WILL PROVE that it restores the determination of the fluids to the surface of the body, and brings on the common, healthful perspiration; that it dislodges and evacuates the tough, viscid phlegm, or mucus, strengthens the weakened vessels of the lungs, sheathes the acrimonious humours which irritate the lungs, and finally discharges them. Thus striking at the root of the disorder, the symptoms are of course, effectually and permanently conquered, the reverse of common medicines, which weaken the constitution and give strength to the disorder, for the sake of moderating for the present, some of its painful effects.

TO PARENTS
Who may have Children afflicted with the
HOOPING COUGH.

This discovery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorder to which children are liable; the Elixir is so perfectly agreeable and the dose so small, that no difficulty arises in taking it.

Dr. HAMILTON's
Genuine Essence and Extract of MUSTARD.

For Rheumatisms, Gout, Palsey, Sprains, &c. a great number of attested cures may be seen at the place of sale. Dr. Hamilton's Grand Restorative for constitutions debilitated by intemperance of any kind; and for the cure of Nervous Complaints, Inward Weakness, Obstinate Gleets, Fluor Albus in women, &c.

Hamilton's justly celebrated Worm Lozenges, the infallible Itch Ointment, Dr. Leroux's Indian Vegetable Specific for Venereal Complaints, Ague and Fever Drops which had never failed effecting a cure, Dr. Hahn's Antibilious Pill, ditto Corn Plaister, the Persian Lotion for the face and skin, Gowland's Lotion, Church's Cough Drops, Anderson's Pills,

THE DAMASK LIP SALVE

Is recommended (particularly to the Ladies) as an elegant and pleasant preparation for chopped and sore lips, and every blemish and inconvenience occasioned by colds, fevers, &c. speedily restoring a beautiful rosy colour and delicate softness to the lips.

THE RESTORATIVE POWDER

FOR THE TEETH AND GUMS.

This excellent preparation comforts and strengthens the gums, preserves the enamel from decay, and cleanses and whitens the teeth, absorbing all that acrimonious slime and foulness, which suffered to accumulate, never fails to injure and finally ruin them.

☞ Those who wish to procure the medicines genuine, must apply ONLY as above.

Wholesale purchasers will receive a liberal allowance by application to LEE & Co. Baltimore, who have obtained the general agency for the United States.

NO RISK!

To Merchants, Store Keepers and Tradesmen in general, &c.

[You will oblige me by reading this advertisement throughout.]

I RESPECTFULLY invite you either to the City Tavern, Hardy's Hotel, Francis' Hotel, the Indian Queen, Dunwoody's Tavern, the Franklin's Head, or to the George, to examine a specimen of Rowlett's Tables of Discount or Interest, on every Dollar, from 1 to 2,000; on every ten, from 2000 to 2500; on every fifty from 2500 to 3000; and on every five hundred from 3000 to 5000; from one day to 64 days inclusive, at six per cent. comprising in the whole, upwards of one hundred and thirty two thousand one hundred and fifty calculations of discount; all performed according to the equitable principles of the Banks, and as practised between individuals throughout the United States; being a perfect standard on the subject: with notes, shewing how to use the tables at five, seven and eight per cent. reckoning either 360 or 365 days to the year, and the mode of calculation on cents; to which is added, the principles of computation of the various exchanges between each State respectively, and between these and London and Paris, at different rates of exchange.

The work is dedicated, by permission, to the President and Directors of the Bank of North America, and has already received the patronage of JOHN ADAMS, President of the United States; of THOMAS JEFFERSON, Vice President of the United States and President of the Senate; of a large number of the Senators and Members of the House of Representatives of the United States; and of the Presidents and Directors of the different Banks unanimously:—a list of the whole is printed and attached to the specimen book.

The preface to the specimen explains, among other matters, the methods to be pursued to render the work perfectly accurate—and gentlemen who will reflect on those methods will agree in the fact. Every one will acknowledge the arduousness of the undertaking.

The expences, independent of any compensation for my trouble, will require a sum between three and four thousand dollars, which is two much to hazard—all must depend therefore upon a general subscription; for unless fifteen hundred subscribers are obtained, it would certainly be imprudent to execute the work.

Subscribers can run no risk, as the book (which will be quarto, from 200 to 225 pages, or more—price two dollars) is not to be paid for until delivered rigorously conformable to my engagements expressed in the conditions affixed to the specimen, which consists of six detached pages of the work.

A table of all the post towns in the United States, and some other useful information (not expressed in the title) will follow the computations of exchanges between this country and England and France; and provided, gentlemen, that a sufficient number of you come forward and subscribe, a further addition shall be made of the coins and money of account of the principal maritime trading places in Russia, Sweden, Denmark, Norway, Prussia, Poland, Germany, Holland, Flanders, Spain, Portugal, Italy, and in several of the windward and leeward West India Islands, the whole reduced to dollars and cents; and the mode of computing the exchange with those places explained; also, a large sheet table of calculations at compound interest at 6 per cent. to which the notes for 5, 7 and 8 per cent. will apply—the tables used in banks for the determination of the value of gold; and the interest for each month from one to twelve months, which will make the work still more acceptable to persons living in the country as well as in town; and upon the whole, I am confident, that this book will be found as generally useful and convenient as any matter of fact-performance that ever entered a counting house or store.

It is not sufficient that an individual (considering himself but one) shall conclude, instead of subscribing, to purchase the book when published, as some of the members of the House of Representatives of the United States have done; for, however much I am obliged to these, the the loss of many ONES' subscriptions may lose me the race, and the book may never be published. I repeat, that nothing is to be paid in advance,

And am, very respectfully,
Gentlemen,
Your humble servant,
JOHN ROWLETT,
Accomptant Bank North America.

Postscript.—Gentlemen who have business at either of the Banks, or at the Philadelphia Library, will have an opportunity of subscribing there, as well as at the Taverns, &c. before mentioned.

Copy right secured according to act of Congress.

The Year 1800 is arrived!

UNION TAVERN,
In George-Town, upon the Potomak, is
FOR SALE,
Upon the premises, on the first Monday in May next.

THIS Tavern was built by the subscription of a number of gentlemen as a necessary and useful improvement to the town—It cost 16000 dollars in the year 1796 when materials and workmanship were much cheaper than at this time. The terms of subscription were that it should be sold to the highest bidder on the day above mentioned.

It is a handsome, substantial brick building, of three stories, fronting sixty feet on the most public street in the town, and running back sixty three feet upon a wide and convenient street—The house is admirably calculated for a tavern. It contains upon the first floor four large rooms, one of them 30 by 20 feet and another 23 by 20, besides a large bar and dressing room, upon the second floor is an elegant assembly room, 60 by 30 feet, and three convenient lodging rooms. Upon the third floor are ten excellent lodging rooms—the garrat admits of a division of ten more. There is also a good kitchen and commodious cellars sufficient for such a house. Passages and cross passages intersect the house in such a manner as to make each room private.

There are stables sufficient for the accommodation of fifty horses, with convenient sheds for carriages—attached to the building are three lots of 60 feet by 120 each, which front on three streets, and in the back yard and not 20 yards from the kitchen is a copious and never failing spring of most excellent running water.

The nature of improvements and their convenience to the city of Washington must render this property a most desirable acquisition to any person who may wish to carry on a tavern upon an extensive scale. The immediate removal of the government of the United States must receive to it full and complete custom.

The terms of sale are, one third in cash—one third in 120 days and the other third in 240 days, to be secured by approved notes negotiable at the Bank of Columbia or at either of the Banks in Baltimore, possession to be given on the day of sale and a perfect title made clear, of all incumbrances, on the last payment being made.

The Gazette.

PHILADELPHIA,
TUESDAY EVENING, MARCH 25.

Justum et tenacem propositi virum,
Non civium ardor prava jubentium,
Non vultus instantis tyranni,
Mente quatit solida.

To the Præfect of Barratraria.

But few the days since last my tuneful lyre
Your honor greeted in melodious strain,
Again a spark of bright poetic fire
Warms all my senses—fires my motley brain:—
In freedom's name
I sang thy fame,
Sang sweet D ll-s, ———, C-xe,
At truth's loud call
Told patriots all
"Vox populi, est Dei Vox."——
Again the bard, inspired, essays
To waft a few poetic lays,
And deck thy brow with blooming bays.

But know, your honor, mine's no venal strain,
Unasked, the bard thy praises chaunts again—
Called by the sov'reign voice, against thine own,
To grace with splendor Pennsylvania's throne,
Each patriot shouted, L-g-n roared, and Le-b,
In every ale house, cursed the federal tribe—
In every street
The patriots meet,
Arrayed in robes by thy election won,
Each other greet
With smile so sweet,
And sound the fame of freedom's choicest son—
To you they waft, enraptured, freedom's strain,
While you, so modest, waft it back again,
And thank the free born, patriotic train.

What shouts from patriot lungs resound
As on your prancing steed you bound,
By Legislature to be crowned——
See ——— well trained martial choir,
Some march behind—some march before,
While by your side,
Your son does ride, [roar.
And list, well pleased, while sov'reign patriots
Soon as proclaimed, thy zeal how great,
To purge poor Pennsylvania State,
Of traitors, tories, refugees,
The seds to disappoint, and A. J. D. to please.
Loughborough falls
And D ll-s calls
To fill his seat, the guide of Howe,
I——'s content
To fix his tent
In Seventh street, and sell a horse—or cow.

The "Calm Observer," or discarded clerk,
From Dallas too, receives a card,
"Pray Mr. B. take H.'s post,
"Tend Mayor's court, and tender orphans guard."

This is the man, your honor, who has sang
Of Washington so sweet—who sang so true,
Who may perhaps in future times harangue,
The sovereign citizens in praise of you.

There are, your honor, yet some men who say
You did not to T. M. your promise keep—
I don't believe it—nay, a bet I lay,
These scoundrels dreamt this promise in their sleep,
Peace smiles around, each sov'reign cit is pleased
You've cured the State of late, so much diseased,
But yet, strange rumours float in every gale,
Each federal tongue hums loud a new-coined tale—
D—— 'tis said, your honor, means to leave you—
Sure D—— could not wish so much to grieve you.
I doubt it much,
He'd rather touch,
Methinks a few more of the loaves and fishes,
That in this State
Those patriots wait,
Who D----s-like, comply with all your wishes;
But yet, your friend do say
You'll have your way
And make him stay
With you, yet more in freedom's cause to toil,—
Yet more, his pot, at our expence to boil.
But if he should forsake you, much I dread,
You'll find no one in D----s shoes to tread,
So honest—patriotic—just—
No one so well
On this side hell
To execute this mighty trust.

But yet, your honor, I have heard it said,
That C—, who worked so hard at your election,
Will condescend to eat this patriot's bread—
Provided you have no objection.

And P———, too, the story goes,
(The Chemic Priest, who "seeks repose,")
Has humbly sent you by petition,
To get for Cooper this commission:
I have no doubt, you'll choose the best of those;
But if the bard could now be heard,
This Cooper should, with Priestley, "seek repose,"
And C—. the guide of Howe, preferred.
I'll tell your honor why I love this C—
He's one of Godwin's philanthropic band,
He scorns the secrets of a friend to keep,
While it can save, from Adams' grasp, our land.

Perhaps your Honor, now and then might write
To C—— a friendly, well-penned letter,
And then you know, we Cits might wish a sight,
And judge ourselves which writes the better.

Upon my soul, your honor and (believe me,)
It would not half so sorely grieve me,
To see this D——
Hanged on a Gallows,
As at this time desert the throne,
And leave you, Sir, to rule alone.
Your honor when at school a boy,
Did Æsop's fables ne'er your hours employ?
Say, did you never cast your eyes
On Æsop's story of the fox and flies?
A fox was swimming (so old Æsop said,)
And flies in myriads settled on his head,
For lusc'ious food,
They drank his blood,
Which Mr. Fox, with Job-like patience bore,
A swallow kind,
With feeling mind,
Addressed him thus, ere yet he reached the shore,
"Pray, Mr. Fox shall I drive off those flies
"That fill with blood, instead of tears, thy eyes?"
"Oh, no," says Reynard, 'let them drink their fill
"And then perhaps, the vermin will be still;
"But if you plunge those myriads in the flood,
"Fresh ones will come, and drain my veins of blood,"
Your honor now may make the application,
While I sincerely pray, God bless our nation.

AN AUTHOR'S EVENINGS.

PAUL WHITEHEAD was but an indifferent poet, and I dislike not only his rhymes, but his principles, for he was a malcontent and a clamourous bawler against authority. Yet even in the crude works of this man, I have found an admirable and poetical description of his pleasures of the table.

"E'er wants my table the health cheering meal
With Banstead mutton crown'd, or Essex veal?
Smokes not from Lincoln meads the stately loin
And rosy gammon of Hantonian swine?
From Dorking's roosts the feather'd victims bleed,
And Thames still wafts me Ocean's scaly breed,
Tho Gallia's vines their costly juice deny,
Still Tajo's banks the jocund glass supply,
Still distant worlds nectareous treasures roll,
And either India sparkles in my bowl;
Or Devon's boughs, or Dorset's bearded fields
To Britain's arms a British beverage yields."

Nothing can be more useful as incentive to literary exertion, than the history of such men who have found time, among necessary and daily cases, to compose books of topics, remote from professional or periodical engagements. Of this species of literary biography, that of Mr. Roscoe of Liverpool, is a splendid and salutary example. This gentleman has successfully combined the jarring characters of an attorney and an author, and has ascended from the drawing of declarations to the life of Lorenzo, the magnificent.

HOWELL's description of the Spanish city of Valencia is vivid enough to induce a voluptuary to make a pilgrimage to this terrestrial paradise. "I am now in Valencia, one of the noblest cities of all Spain; here are the strongest silks, the sweetest wines, the smoothest oils, and the beautifulest females of all Spain." The ardent author gravely adds "for the prime courtezans of Madrid and elsewhere are had hence."

As I am a hypochondriack, I am sometimes infested with dreams, both merry and sad. Hence, I have looked very narrowly into the history and philosophy of dreams, and could undoubtedly produce a very heavy quarto concerning visions nocturnal and diurnal, Such a book would produce sleep, if not dreams. When I was at Drowsy college,* I made many a sacrifice to the "Genius loci," and not only slept and dreamed, but pored over many a sleepy and dreaming author. I read five essays and two metaphysical treatises upon snoring, not to mention my attendance upon the divinity lectures and other useful exercises, auxiliary to nodding and dreaming. I never slept more profoundly than I did at this humdrum period. A nap lasted generally twenty-four hours, and a dream was as long as a term. I was crowned with a garland poppy, and it seemed as if "all the drowsy potions in the world" were my daily beverage. My dreams too, at this learned and leaden period, were of a nature singularly wild and fantastic. I dreamed that Cambridge river was the Castalian fount, and that Willard was the true name of the Pæan Apollo.—But, enough of dreams and a seminary of sleepers. I write this, just as my lamp is expiring, and have only sufficient light and vigilance left to copy from Dryden's melodious fable of the Cock and the Fox, the following lines, the finest ever penned upon so unpromising a subject:

"Let each man do as to his fancy seems,
I wait, nor I, 'till I have better dreams.
Dreams are but interludes, which fancy makes,
When monarch Reason sleeps, this mimic wakes,
Compounds a medley of disjointed things,
A court of Cobblers and a mob of Kings.
Light fumes are merry, grosser fumes are sad;
Both are the reasonable soul run mad,
And many monstrous forms in sleep we see
That neither were, nor are, nor e'er can be.
Sometimes, forgotten things, long cast behind,
Rush forward in the brain and come to mind;
The nurse's legends are for truths receiv'd,
And the man dreams but what the boy believ'd."

* The author does not mean that University, where Mr. PITT was instructed; nor that, where the kindest affections to the Church, to the Muses, and to the Stuarts are taught; nor that, where a ROBERTSON presided, and Scottish Students profited, nor that, which Glasgow boasts; nor that, which forms the youth of Aberdeen. He means a small school of New England, something like that described by the merry ANSTEY.

"Granta sweet Granta, where, find us of ease,
Seven years did I sleep, and—then lost my degrees."

Lavater gives a plate of Two Fools, among the illustrations of his doctrine of Physiognomy. One of them is an exact likeness of the Author of the Aliens.

Transparencies are like to become all the ton during the rage of Sirius. The sanction not only of fashion but rank is given. It seems to have been possible to see through, or even to dive into many things, without the aid of transparencies.

One would imagine from the passion of certain of those pretty creatures, called Bucks, for dashing about town on Horseback thro' the mud, that they had recently returned from a voyage to the Houyhnhnms, where they imbibed the singular opinions and prejudices of that extraordinary man, Mr. Lemuel Gulliver.

THE MORAL DISPENSARY.

Quid enim interest, utrum ex homine se quis conferat in belluam, an hominis figura immanitatem gerat belluæ? Cic.

If a man will assume the savage insensibility of a brute, he might as well take the form likewise.

NO part of the human constitution so urgently demands the unremitted care of the Moral Physician as the passions. To restrain, to temper, to direct them to suitable objects, constitute the whole of human happiness, as well as the sum of moral duty. On the contrary; to give the reins, without controul, or to suffer them to stagnate in total inaction, with equal certainty, induces wretchedness and ruin.

I consider the soul of man, encompassed by its affections and passions, as resembling a grave, judicious, affectionate father, surrounded by a family of dissolute and ungoverned daughters. Their pleasantry makes him cheerful, their vivacity gives him animation, their necessities stimulate his labors, and their filial obedience inspires him with complacency and love: but, on the other hand; their wanton indiscretions, their inordinate pleasures, their frequent disobedience, and their refractory extravagancy are the grief and torment of his life. In like manner, these freakish daughters of the soul, if trained and disciplined to the rules of modest decorum, and confined within the bounds of rational subordination, at once afford a stimulus to vigorous exertions, and accompany those exertions with the highest enjoyment: but, if left to pursue the devious rout of their own unsettled fantasy, like the vagous fire of night, they lead, unheeded, to ruinous disaster.

In order to prevent the more violent and mischievous passions from predominating in the mind, every one should be careful to place himself in circumstances suited to increase and confirm, by exercise, those benevolent emotions, which constitute the source of every rational pleasure. As with the rays of the sun, so with the affections of the heart: it is by reflection alone that they are rendered perceptible. In open space, they wander unperceived: in acting at their source, they act without effect: but when they fall and center upon some external object, then first is discovered the beauty and genial warmth of the bosom whence they emanate: then it is, that the soul participates the happiness of its creator, and feel that the perfection of self love consists in that which comes, by reflection, from the objects about it.

Does any one doubt the correctness of these remarks? Let him enquire for a fond lover, who asks to be freed from the real evils of solicitude, doubt and suspence, which accompany his passion, if, with these he is to be robbed of the complicated and indescribable pleasure which he derives from the exercise of that affection. Let him seek for a mother, who desires relief from the anxieties, the cares, the labors and the apprehensions which she undergoes for the love of her children, if cold indifference towards them offer to minister that relief. Let him make a still more serious appeal, and enquire for a meek and pious christian, who, feeling the love of his God and his neighbor warm at his heart, would, aside from all future considerations, allow the crown of thorns to be plucked from his head, if, at the same time, oblivion were to erase from his heart those grateful, those divine emotions which he feels to be essential happiness.

Can he find such? If one were found; would he not pronounce him brute or fiend, and be disposed, with a righteous indignation, to ——"put, in every honest hand, a whip

To lash the rascal naked through the world?"

To the honor of humanity, it will be found, with very rare exception, that every person, who has felt the genial glow of such affections, will agree that love, in all these forms, is a guest too welcome at the heart to be rudely bolted out for the paltry reason, that he is, at times, attended by a few unpleasant or less agreeable companions. Whether he assumes the enchanting form of conjugal love;—the milder, though not less endearing aspect of filial or parental affection;—or the more grave and dignified mien of friendship, piety and benevolence; he, alike in all, possesses the magic power of smoothing the rugged roads, through which he leads, and of so veiling and disguising the evils which follow in his train, as to render them, on his account, easy and even pleasant to be borne. It is not, then, correct to say, that these emotions produce happiness: they are happiness; and those, who feel them not, are strangers to the true felicity of life.

Those who would taste these fruits, must cultivate the soil in which they grow. They will not spontaneously present themselves to the lips of the fallen anchorite, who can see in this world "no beauty or comeliness wherefore he should desire it. The censorious misanthrope may find, in the depravity of human nature, abundant vent for all his envenomed spleen: but wisdom would check its flow, for it cannot fail to recur upon himself, with twofold virulence. The man who secludes himself from society, and suspiciously withholds from man and woman, his confidence and affection, merely from the apprehension of their being abused, would act with perfect consistency, should he procure his head to be taken off for fear that it might ake. If his own wretchedness be his object, he has chosen the ready course to be satisfied to the full, and will doubtless enjoy the miserable satisfaction of finding mankind precisely such as he had depicted them; so unkind and hard hearted as not even to pity his unhappiness. Such is, doubtless, the wise constitution of things, that no surer method can be adopted to produce either good or ill will, in others, than to manifest a belief of its actual existence. Every person, therefore, who thinks, by contempt and scorn, to bring the world to a sense of his duty must be wretchedly disappointed to find that this same WORLD is always ready to turn up a more formidable nose than his, and will far out-scorn the scorner.

The voluntary old bachelor, who has spent his youthful vigor in riot and debauchry, and rendered himself like the muddy dregs of vapid beer, nauseous and destitute of every natural quality except its bitterness, to whose ear the conversation of women is idle nonsense, and the prattle of children irksome jargon, is fully entitled to be free from these evils. But let him ask no more. Let him not grow sour and repine at the happiness of his neighbor who enjoys, anew, the pleasures of youth, in the blooming gaity of a rising and hopeful family. He will look in vain for those transports which PÆTUS felt, when, in the hands of an enemy, he saw the weeping ARRIA entreating, as a favor, to be allowed to accompany her captive husband, to wait at his meals, and put on his shoes, in the room of a servant to whom, by his rank, PÆtus was entitled: or when, after a denial of this favor, he saw her, in an open boat, braving the dangers of the sea, to follow him across the Adriatic. Let him content himself to forego such, and innumerable other kind offices which spring only from virtuous attachments, which enliven the pleasure and alleviate the sorrows of life. These are "joys which the stranger intermeddleth not with." They are rights which belong to the father and the husband, who must not be defrauded.

Those, then, who would seek a shield against the ingratitude, the disappointments and the disasters of the world, will find it, not in the exercise of malevolence, which itself is misery; not in disgust and solitary retirement, the abode of conscious insignificance and restless discontent; but in those domestic relations and friendly connexions, which demand the exercise of unremitted care, attention and kindness. These are productive causes of attachment and love to the objects towards whom they are exerted, and constitute the same species of felicity which the DEITY himself enjoys in consulting and promoting the welfare of his creation. SOLOMON SIMPLE, P. M. D.

QUERIES

Respectfully offered to the consideration of the Academy of Medicine, and other learned Institutions.

IS it not proper to petition the Assembly for a law, to forbid the inhabitants of Philadelphia to keep Sour Krout in their houses, and the farmers to sell beans* in the market, during the warm months of summer and autumn; as both these vegetables are known, directly or indirectly, to have a peculiar tendency to generate a mephitic gas, and to corrupt the atmosphere?

Which is the greatest pest to society, the ignorant mountebank who vends his nostrums from a stall, whom every body despises and avoids, or the Medicinæ Doctor who, in pursuit of discoveries and a great name, proceeds year after year to make experiments on the human frame, at the expence of thousands of lives?

If you denominate any disorder by the name of yellow Fever, no matter what it is and treat it as such, will it not become as alarming and mortal, in a month or six weeks as the real yellow fever of the West-Indies; and will it not produce effects equally baneful to the prosperity of the city?

If vessels sailing from Philadelphia and New-York in the months of August, September, and October, are obliged to perform quarantine in Great-Britain and Ireland, as was the case last year, although vessels directly from the West-India islands, the native seat of the yellow fever, were exempt, is it not an alarming circumstance? and are we not indebted for this injurious distinction to the infinite pains some men have taken, to spread an opinion that a new and malignant disorder, which they denominate an "autumnal pestilence," has made its appearance in the United States; owing to some change in the atmosphere of the country, which they can neither describe nor account for?

I wish to know whether the Oleum baccalinum applied warm to the pericraneum of a patient, or the lex libellorum to his crumena, is like to be the most efficacious medicine in subduing the lanceto-colamelo-phobia; a contumacious malady which if not speedily checked, threatens to bring the practice of some learned physicians into universal discredit?

How many patients may a physician kill by the free and indiscriminate prescription of a new medicine, before a man may venture to call him a Quack?

In this disastrous age of the world, when the rabies innovandi prevails so universally, is it not possible, even, for a lunatic to make converts to a new opinion? Brothers, one of the craziest, though perhaps the most innocent, of the modern illuminati, had patrons and disciples even in the British House of Commons!

May not a man be very sensible and intelligent on common topics, and yet rave like a lunatic, whenever yellow fever is brought into conversation? We know there are patients in Bedlam, who talk very rationally on every subject, except those which were the immediate cause of their derangement. One of this unhappy description conceited that he was Neptune, the God of the Ocean, and on his proper element he was omnipotent; he could even extinguish the fires of Tartarus, or quench the thunder-bolts of Jupiter. On all other topics he was rational and entertaining, but as soon as you touched on this awful theme, you put his intellectual machine into the wildest disorder. AN ENQUIRER.

* "Abstain from beans," was one of the sage aphorisms of Pythagoras: the meaning, though too recondite for the vulgar, must be well known to your learned academy.

A STATEMENT OF FACTS,

By which the public may form some judgment of the intrepid valour of master John Rush.

Last evening three females, two of whom are married, thought proper to enjoy the pleasure which the united powers of a Merry and Cooper promised at the theatre. During the two first acts, several gentlemen spoke to them, but in a style not to give offence. It remained for this daring stripling and his companion (who is unknown) to o'er leap the bounds of decency, and to insult them in the grossest manner. They condescended to use language that would have disgraced a shoe boy, and by the repetition of "Damme I know you—I know your voice, 'tis damn'd affection to me—throw up your veil—and don't be so shy—I tell you I smoak you."—This, and much more in the same sublime style, obliged one of them to lift her veil, when she begged him to desist, and requested to know his name—he answered her by a most indecent expression, at which himself and companion were the only ones to laugh. The ladies attempted to retire.—To walk was impossible, as they had every thing to dread from his indecent behaviour, and no carriage was to be had so early.

Corporal punishment is best suited to his time of life, but the rod ought to be placed in the hands of his respectable father, who, no doubt, will be much hurt by the conduct of his son, so unlike a gentleman. Should this forward youth add to his unmanly conduct, that of falsehood, the persons concerned beg leave to refer him to Mr. J. B. Bond, who was present part of the time; or Lieut. M. Reynolds,—to the politeness of the latter gentlemen the ladies are much obliged. He did that which would have disgraced no man, and ought ever to distinguish the soldier—to protect the unprotected.

This statement is not meant to draw an apology from Rush, no; they would disdain to accept of an apology from a person capable of acting as he has done. They will offer one for him: he appeared to act under the effect of foreign influence, and from the effluvia it was supposed to be Nantz.

CONGRESS.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

MONDAY, March 24.

Mr. Parker, from the Naval Committee, reported the following resolution:

Resolved, By the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, that the President of the United States be requested to present to Captain Thomas Truxtun, a Golden Medal, emblematical of the late action between the United States frigate Constellation, of 38 guns, and the French ship of war La Vengeance, of 54 guns, in testimony of the high sense entertained by Congress, of his gallantry and good conduct in the above engagement; wherein an example was exhibited, by the Captain, Officers, Sailors, and Marines, honorable to the American name, and instructive to its rising navy.

Resolved, That the conduct of James Jarvis, a midshipman, in said frigate, who gloriously preferred certain death to the abandonment of his post, is deserving of the highest praise, and that the loss of so promising an officer is a subject of national regret.

Messrs. Randolph and Lyon opposed the first resolution. The question upon agreeing to it was taken by ayes and nays and carried ayes 87—noes 4. Those who voted in the negative are

Mr. Jackson, Mr. Randolph,
Lyon, Sumpter.

The second resolution was agreed to unanimously.

The bill supplementary to the act to regulate trade and intercourse with the Indian tribes, and to preserve peace on the frontiers was read a third time, and passed.

Mr. A. Foster presented a petition of Silas Dinsmoor, late an agent of the United States to the Cherokee nation of Indians, praying compensation for services rendered in that capacity. Referred to the Committee of Claims.

Mr. Gallatin presented the remonstrance of a number of the inhabitants of Fayette county, Pennsylvania, against Benjamin Wells, collector of excise in that county; which was referred to the Secretary of the Treasury.

Mr. D. Foster, from the Committee of Claims, made a report on the petition of Robert Yates, who prayed for commutation to which he supposed he was intitled as heir to his late brother. The Committee report, that the petitioner never had the right to which he makes claim, and that the petition should be rejected. In this report the House concurred.

Mr. Harper brought in a bill to amend the act intitled an act to provide for the Second Census, or enumeration of the inhabitants of the United States; which was ordered to be read a third time to-morrow.

The House resumed the consideration of the question on passing the bill for the relief of the Corporation of Rhode Island College.

Messrs. Macon and Gallatin opposed it, and Messrs. Champlin, Otis, and J. Brown, in favor of it, when the question was taken.

Yeas 41 Nays 41.

Mr. Speaker declare himself in the affirmative, and the bill was passed.

Mr. Harper brought in a bill to make further provision for the removal and accommodation of the Government of the United States, which was read and committed for Wednesday.

The house went into committee of the whole on the bill to provide for the better regulation and establishment of the courts of the United States, when the bill having been read by the clerk, the committee rose, and on the question, shall the committee have leave to sit again, it passed in the negative—ayes 38—noes 40.

Mr. Harper moved the following resolution, which was agreed to by the house, viz. Resolved, That the committee of ways and means have leave to repare and report a bill or bills, for making appropriations for the various branches of the public service during the present year.

Adjourned.

SENATE.

William Duane, who was commanded by the Senate of the United States, to appear at their bar on the 24th inst. in compliance with that order appeared in the senate chamber yesterday forenoon—and upon the President's requesting him to state, what he had to say in answer to the charge alledged against him, replied, that not being versed in the law, from an unacquaintance with which he might possibly criminate himself in answering all the questions which probably might be put to him, he wished to be heard by counsel. He was then ordered to withdraw—when a motion was made that counsel should be allowed; but an objection being made to Mr. Duane's substituting the appearance of counsel in his behalf, and of absenting himself he was again called in and desired to state, whether if counsel was allowed, he meant to attend himself—His answer being evasive, a resolution then was agreed to—ayes 21—noes 8, allowing him counsel provided he attended to answer such questions as might be judged proper to be put to him.

Another resolution was also adopted, commanding his attendance in the Senate chamber on Wednesday, at 12 o'clock.

OF THE

RUSH-LIGHT

Will be published next Wednesday morning.

☞ As a most tyrannical attempt has been made to suppress the sale and put a stop to the circulation of this work, in Philadelphia; and, as it is apprehended that those, in the city, who "hate the light, because their deeds are evil," will succeed in intimidating the booksellers so far as to prevent them from selling; this is to give notice, that any Philadelphian, who still wishes to see the truth, shall be supplied with the RUSH LIGHT regularly by post, and that I will pay the postage.

The money must be paid in advance; but this may be very easily managed. Five gentlemen, for instance, may join together, and send on a five dollar note, upon the receipt of which credit will be given to each of them for four Numbers which will be regularly sent on, the moment they are published.

This puts one in mind of the means formerly made use of to steal books from free states into despotic ones. What strange things come about in his world!

IN compliance with the instructions of the Committee for watering the city, and with my own inclinations, every possible admittance and information has been given to those citizens who have visited the Works during their progress. The Engines are now arrived, and are immediately to be put up, and it is hoped that it will be thought reasonable and just, both to the Public, and to the Contractor for the Engines, that the workmen should not be interrupted. As a very few months will fully gratify the curiosity of the citizens, by shewing them the Engines in full operation, a temporary exclusion of all visitors from the Engine houses cannot appear improper.

All non residents shall enter their lands with the auditor, or with the clerk of the peace of the country in which the land lies, on or before the first day of July, who shall administer an oath to the person delivering such list, or by any other means procure satisfactory information for the purpose of ascertaining the quality of such land, placing it in its proper class, under the name of the county in which it lies; and every non resident shall enter his or her land, agreeably to the rules and regulation of this act, as in case of residents. All taxes on lands, listed by the commissioner, and returned to the clerk as aforesaid, shall be paid, with interest thereon, to the sheriff or collector, as the case may be. And the taxes on all lands, listed by the auditor (or by the clerks of the peace and certified to the auditor) with the interest that may be due thereon, shall be paid to the territorial treasurer or to the sheriff or collector of the proper county, but the treasurer shall not receive from the non resident, any taxes, unless such non resident pay the same before the first day of August, annually, nor until such non resident shall produce to him, a certificate from the auditor or the clerk of the peace respectively, of the quality of the land, for which he or she is about to pay the tax, with the amount due thereon, which certificate shall be, by the treasurer, filed in his office. The auditor of the territory and the clerk of the peace of the several counties respectively, shall keep books of transfers; and every non resident, who has entered his or her lands, in manner aforesaid, may, on the transferring the same or any part thereof to any other person or persons, have the alteration made with the auditor or clerk of the peace respectively, and charged to the person or persons to whom transferred, and such person shall be chargable with the tax of such land or lands hereafter; and each person having the alteration made, shall pay to the auditor or clerk of the peace respectively, twenty five cents, to his own use. And it shall be the further duty of the auditor, in the month of August, yearly and every year, to transmit to the clerks of the peace of the several counties respectively, a certified extract of all lands entered in his office, or alterations therein made in the preceding year, noting thereon the tracts of land on which the taxes have been paid into the territorial treasury. Provided always, That it shall be the duty of the several clerks of the peace, upon receiving from the auditor, a list of the non residents' lands entered in his office, to make diligent search and enquiry of the non residents' lands lying in each of their respective counties; and after comparing the said auditorial list with the list of non residents' lands entered in his office, shall proceed to list all the residue of the lands belonging to non-residents not before listed, noting the quantity and quality of the several tracts of land, so by him discovered and not before entered, and such as he cannot with certainty ascertain the quality of, he shall enter as second rate; and shall make out and transmit one copy to the territorial auditor, and a second copy of such list the clerk shall deliver to the sheriff or collector of the proper county, to govern him in collecting the taxes due thereon, as in other cases of non residents' lands.

Sec. 13 And be it further enacted, That the sheriff or collector shall be authorised to sell so much of each tract of land charged with taxes, as will discharge the amount thereof, with costs: Provided goods and chattels cannot be found thereon to the amount. And the sheriff or collector in that case, shall advertise the time and place of sale one month, at the door of the court-house, and also, at four other public places in his county; and if the person claiming the land does not pay the amount on or before the expiration of the time, the sheriff or collector shall proceed to sell; after such sale, the sheriff or collector shall deliver to the purchaser a certificate of the quantity of land sold, describing therein the tract that was charged with the tax, and the end or side from which the quantity sold was taken, which shall always be laid off as nearly in a square as the situation will admit of: And the surveyor of the county, on the receipt of such certificate, shall by himself or deputy proceed to survey the quantity sold as aforesaid, agreeably to the said certificate, and charge the purchaser with the expence of the same. The surveyor or his deputy as the case may be, shall give notice to the former owner, if in the county, or his agent, if any he has therein, of the day on which the survey is to be made: And upon the plat and certificate of survey being presented to the sheriff or collector, it shall be his duty to convey the same to the purchaser by deed, in due form of law executed, which conveyance shall vest in the purchaser all the right, title and interest of the proprietor; and in consideration of law shall also vest the possession of the land in the purchaser: Provided always, that nothing therein contained shall extend, or be construed to extend, to bar the right or equity of redemption, which any infant, person non compos mentis, or in captivity, may have the land so sold, provided the taxes and charges thereon, with interest, and an equitable compensation for improvements thereon made, be rendered within one year after such disability be removed.

Sec. 14. And be it further enacted, That when any tract of land, or part thereof, is not sold upon being exposed, and the tax on the same not paid, it shall be the duty of the sheriff or collector to advertise and expose the same to sale in like manner, as to time and place as aforesaid, at every court of quarter sessions, until the land be sold or the tax be paid thereon; and no sheriff or collector, or their deputies, shall directly or indirectly purchase any land that shall be exposed to sale for the payment of taxes.

Sec. 16. And be it further enacted, That when any non-resident fails to pay to the treasurer the tax and interest due on any tract of land, on or before the said month of August annually, the auditor shall, at the same time when he transmits to the several clerks of the counties the amount of lands entered in his office, certify to the several sheriffs or collectors, as the case may be, such failure of payment, stating particularly the amount of the taxes due thereon; and also at the same time advertise the same in one of the Gazettes of this territory, for four weeks successively; whereupon the sheriff or collector shall, forthwith after receiving such list, proceed to advertise on the court house door of his proper county, the said tracts of lands on which the tax is due, stating the amount thereof, and that he shall proceed to make sale of the same to satisfy said taxes, unless the same shall be paid on or before the first Monday in November, or so much thereof as will pay the taxes and expences attending the sale; and the said sheriff or collector shall advertise the same in four different public places within the county, and if the amount of taxes is not paid, on or before the time mentioned, the sheriff or collector shall proceed to sell each tract, or so much thereof as will amount to the taxes and interest, with legal costs: and when any tract, or part thereof be sold, the sheriff or collector shall proceed in the same manner to have the same conveyed to the purchaser as is directed in case of residents; and it shall not be lawful for the sheriff or collector, or their deputies, directly or indirectly, to purchase any land sold under this section.

Sec. 17 And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the territorial auditor to publish such extracts from this law, as relates to the lands of non-residents, in one newspaper within this territory; and also, in one newspaper at the seat of the general government, and at the city of Richmond in Virginia; and the town of Boston, in Massachusetts; and the city of Hartford in Connecticut, for the term of six weeks, to commence on the first week in February next, and the expences thereof shall be defrayed out of the territorial treasury.
